Wellesley Civil Defense Director Salutes Local Ham Radio Operators

On Sunday, April 13, George P. deCoen, Wellesley Civil Defense Director met with Roger P. Smith, Wellesley C. D. Communications Officer, and his ham radio operators at Wellesley Town Hall to pay tribute to their faithful and dependable services to Civil Defense. Organized in 1951, the Wellesley Civil Defense Communications group has since manned and serviced the CD short wave radio stations in both public and private buildings, holding practice drills every Sunday morning. These weekly tests have never been cancelled. Wellesley CD Communications personnel include:

John D. Allen, K1FWF, and his brother George Allen, WA1HUY, 51 Pine Plain road; Marshall H. Cannell, WA1DMC, 25 Sheridan Road; Dr. William H. Emerson, WA1EVD, 115 Westgate; Ludwig G. Fasolino, WA1DRC, 34 Pine Plain road; Albert H. Graf, W1OQP, 319 Worcester street; Larry C. H. Jones, W1LHM, 297 Weston raod; Walter E. Lenk, K1YTY, 22 Priscilla circle; Roger P. Smith, W1EOA, 7 Berkeley road and Roy E. Snow, W1AFD, 14 Windemere road.

Director deCoen is most appreciative of their public spirited support as evidenced during the Northeast blackout in November 1965 and more recently during the standby flood alert of 1968. Particularly noteworthy was their efficient handling of radio communications for the big parade on Veterans Day, 1968.

For many years, Wellesley Civil Defense has had an active interest in Wellesley's only ham radio club — the Wellesley Amateur Radio Society (WARS). CD radio operators have assumed positions of leadership in WARS by serving as officers or by teaching courses in radio theory and code. T[illegible] has resulted in a steady flow of new ham radio operators for CD short wave mobile and fixed equipment installed in 10 strategic locations around Town.

In addition to his CD assignment, Dr. W. H. Emerson serves as Emergency Coordinator for the American Radio Relay League while Marshall H. Cannell, George Allen, Dr. Emerson and Walter E. Lenk are active on Air Force MARS message handling systems.

MODERN SCULPTURE ADDS INTEREST TO FILENE'S DISPLAYS . . . Several works of modern sculpture on loan from the Painting Box, 35 Grove street, Wellesley, have been catching the attention of shoppers passing the windows of Filene's Wellesley. The sculptor is Lubomir Tomaszewski, a talented native of Poland, whose works have found their way into museums and important private collections both in this country and abroad. Tomaszewski's favorite materials are fused glass, ceramics, and metals which he assembles in original and imaginative combinations. His works may be viewed at the Painting Box even after the Filene display is over.
